

HD Week Is Observed Here

Dr. Lowell Harris is shown speaking to thirty Extension Homemaker leaders at training meeting recently. The doctor presented training on anatomy, offering an opportunity for questions and discussion for a better understanding of body functions.

This is one of the lessons being studied this year by Extension Homemakers on chosen theme "Keeping Families Fit Through Education."

Extension Homemaker leaders representing 21 Extension Homemaker groups in Hempstead County receive training regularly as organized by Extension Home Economists from needs and interests of homemakers.

Leaders use this new knowledge and skills learned to teach their friends and neighbors. The local leader system is an important feature of Extension Homemaker work. It greatly extends the efforts of the Home Economists and at the same time helps to develop leadership ability and self-confidence in the leaders. Since there are many training schools for leaders and the homemakers assume different leadership roles each year, this method of carrying on Extension work has become an important means of developing strong community leadership.

Extension Homemaker Week, April 30-May 6 provides an opportunity for recognition of volunteer leaders whose services contribute to the development of better homes in better communities.

Extension Homemaker Week recognizes local homemakers that are serving in County Extension Homemaker positions, advising and assisting with program building of an out-of-school voluntary educational program for homemakers in Hempstead County.

Hempstead County Extension Homemaker Council officers observe with interest the changes made in educational literature since Extension Homemaker began in Hempstead County in 1916. Pictured left to right is Mrs. R. L. Dillard, Extension Homemaker Council Secretary-Treasurer; Mrs. Vernon McMurtrey, President and Mrs. Vernie Coyne, Vice-President.

The Hempstead County Extension Homemakers is the organization through which work with women is conducted under the leadership of Dolores McBride, Extension Home Economist, and Mrs. Alphonos Williams, Assistant Extension Home Economist.

The Extension Homemakers seek reliable, unbiased information to help with their job. Extension Home Economists have access to scientific research through Extension Specialists in various areas of homemaking. In a University - Setting Extension Homemakers continually receive materials designed to reflect their needs.

During Extension Homemaker Week April 30-May 6, recognition is given the participating membership for their interest in acquiring knowledge, experience and understanding that will enable them to adjust to the ever-changing social and economic conditions.

Negroes to March in Louisville

By C. M. GILMOUR JR., LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — Negro civil rights leaders have announced plans for a march on Churchill Downs tonight creating a possible confrontation with the 25,000 fans who normally attend Kentucky Derby eve races.

The Rev. A.D. Williams King, leader in the movement for an open housing ordinance, said Thursday he planned to "go house shopping — just to look, not buy" in the city's all-white South End, scene of violence during demonstrations three weeks ago.

King's brother, Dr. Martin Luther King, in Louisville for Derby week, said earlier he and the Southern Christian Leadership Conference "are 100 percent behind using every means of persuasion" to get the city to pass a law banning racial discrimination in the sale or rental of housing property.

The march will occur about the time the Derby-eve crowd exits from Churchill Downs, also in the southern part of Louisville. If police approve the marchers' application for a parade permit, they must supply enough officers to keep order and reroute traffic.

If the permit is denied, a spokesman said the group would march anyway. The marchers then would face arrests for violating a recent court injunction banning night marches and marches without permits.

The group will assemble at Wyandotte Park for a seven-block march to the Downs. Wyandotte is the area where two weeks ago marchers met up to 1,000 white hecklers who threw bricks, bottles and rocks. Police made total of 500 arrests. The marchers apparently will not enter the Churchill Downs grounds.

There were these other developments Thursday: Officials said policemen and National Guardsmen will number about 300 more than usual for the Kentucky Derby Saturday.

Gov. Edward T. Breathitt said, "I cannot believe that the cause of open housing or any other facet of civil rights could be helped by demonstrations at Churchill Downs."

The National Committee against Discrimination in Housing announced it is demanding that the federal government deny Louisville funds related to urban renewal, housing projects, and the model city program unless the city's aldermen pass an open housing ordinance.

Negro leaders have promised some demonstration on Derby day, but have not said what form it will take.

Insemination Legalized in Oklahoma

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP) — The Oklahoma House has approved and sent to Gov. Dewey Bartlett a bill to legalize artificial insemination of humans and declare children of such conception legitimate.

Final approval of the measure which opponents tagged immoral came Thursday as the House accepted some Senate amendments with little discussion. Both bodies had passed the bill earlier.

Bartlett, who hasn't expressed an opinion on the matter, could make Oklahoma the first state in the nation with a law on human artificial insemination by signing the bill.

The measure provides that artificial insemination may be practiced in the state by a medical doctor. Offspring resulting from the procedure would be considered under the law as having the same rights as a legitimate child conceived naturally.

During the original debate on the measure, Rep. J.D. Witt, D-Vinita, warned that passage of the bill could lead to Oklahoma becoming "the Sweden of the United States."

Other House opponents charged it was "an immoral" proposal that would "put human beings at the same level as four-legged animals" and "won't make for good relations between husbands and wives."

Rep. George Camp, R-Oklahoma City, has received communications from all over the nation concerning his efforts to pass such a bill.

One letter came from a 27-year-old woman in the Northeast who is expecting her first child in June. The child was conceived by artificial insemination after 3½ years of failure to have a child by natural meth-

Civilian Hospitals in Vietnam Overcrowded, Dirty and Inadequate

By GEORGE ESPER, SAIGON (AP) — A private U.S. medical mission reports that the hospitals which treat civilians — most of them war victims — in South Vietnam's northern areas "are very much overcrowded, dirty and have inadequate facilities."

One surgical center, at Da Nang, 380 miles north of Saigon, had 200 beds for 585 patients when the mission visited it, said Dr. Henry Mayer, 52, of Redwood City, Calif.

"So far we've seen a lot of serious war injuries among children and civilians and we've seen a great deal of suffering as a result," Mayer said in an interview today shortly before leaving for New York.

Mayer, who practices internal medicine in Redwood City and also serves on Stanford University's clinical staff, headed a three-man mission sent by the Committee of Responsibility, a national organization based in New York. Its purpose is to send Vietnamese children to the United States for treatment of war injuries that can't be treated satisfactorily in Vietnam.

He said the mission visited about 30 of South Vietnam's 47 provincial hospitals in a three-week tour under the auspices of the U.S. Agency for International Development and the Vietnamese Ministry of Justice.

Most of these hospitals are staffed primarily by U.S. Army, Air Force and Navy personnel. Filipino, Nationalist Chinese, Spanish, Australian and New Zealand teams also serve on the staffs.

The worst hospitals, Mayer said,

"These last six months have been the happiest of my husband's and my lives," the woman wrote. "My husband is our baby's father."

"Fatherhood is more than genes and chromosomes, so much more," she added.

Dr. Herman J. Muller, Nobel Prize-winning zoology professor at the University of Indiana, expressed "encouragement and support" for the bill.

An Oklahoma City couple wrote saying they have been planning to have a child by this method, but their doctor has advised them to wait to see what would happen to the law.

The wife wrote: The doctor "will not and cannot agree to help us unless this bill is allowed to become law." The wife said she knew of other couples interested in and willing to undergo insemination.

said, were in the 1st and 2nd Corps areas — South Vietnam's five northernmost provinces and the central highlands.

"Many times they had no water," he said. "Sometimes the water ran for two hours a day, sometimes a little longer. Many times they had no electricity. Occasionally they had their own generators. Most of the materials were supplied by AID but much of the medications and other expendable medical equipment was spotty in its delivery."

AID delivers materials to the South Vietnamese Ministry of Health in Saigon, which is responsible for delivering them to the government provincial hospitals.

Separated 52 Years Only 3 Miles Apart

HOT SPRINGS, Ark. (AP) — They had been separated for 52 years, but there was no rejoicing when Mrs. Katie Sims, 83, discovered through a newspaper article that she had been living within three miles of her sister. The article concerning her sister, Mrs. Bessie Hartley, 66 was a funeral notice.

Mrs. Sims, who hadn't read Tuesday's paper, read Wednesday about the death of her sister on Monday. She went to the mortuary, where she recognized Mrs. Hartley from a picture she had saved.

The two became separated after their mother died in Frogwell, Okla., Mrs. Sims explained Thursday.

"My sister and I wrote for a while, trying to keep in touch with one another, but letters got misplaced and time passed away," she said. "She married Leroy Hartley in 1920, I later learned, but I never knew what happened to her after that until this week."

"I checked the telephone books at every town I visited for many years, hoping to find my sister or her husband's name listed. I hadn't checked the phone book here in recent years, though, because I thought she might already be dead."

"I'm so grateful to be reunited with the family, but I'm grieved that I didn't find my sister sooner."

Mrs. Sims has lived in this resort city of 31 years. Had she checked the telephone book, she would have found the name of her sister. Mrs. Hartley moved here three years ago.

Truckers Approve Contract

CHICAGO (AP) — A renegotiated contract for 500,000 truck drivers across the nation was approved Thursday night. The pact could end the 11-day strike lockout of more than 45,000 drivers which has crippled freight transportation in the Chicago area.

Frank Fitzsimmons, acting president of the Teamsters Union, said he was confident that Chicago truck drivers would be back to work by Monday.

Announcement of the reworked contract came amid published reports that control of the Teamsters has been shifted from the national headquarters back to local leaders, ending one-man rule of the powerful labor organization.

The revolt against the system established by James R. Hoffa, now serving an eight-year term in federal prison, was reported by the Los Angeles Times in a story from its Chicago bureau. It means the 1.8-million member union is returning to its historic fragmented power structure.

The decision reportedly was voted by the union's general executive board during a secret session Thursday in Chicago.

Fitzsimmons, emerging from a bargaining session with negotiators for the trucking industry, said the new contract will be submitted to union members across the country for a mailed vote.

The renegotiated agreement supersedes a national pact agreed on April 12.

Refutation of the April 12 agreement was stalled by the walkout of Chicago Teamsters Local 705 and the independent Chicago Truck Drivers Union. The national pact called for a 70-cent hourly package over a three-year span and Chicago drivers were demanding a 90-cent package.

Fitzsimmons said the new agreement could give long-haul drivers as much as 78 cents an hour over the next three years.

He said the contract includes 55 cents in "hard money," an improved cost of living plan and other benefits including vacations and a two-day funeral leave.

Police had indicated earlier that they thought foul play was connected with Lilly's disappearance. A two-foot length of pipe was lying beside a crushed hard hat and there were tracks of something that had been dragged to the edge of a 25-foot drop into the river.

Television and Radio

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

AP TV-Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — "The Crucible," was playwright Arthur Miller's furious response 15 years ago to the national turmoil stirred up by the late Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy. It continued to pack anger and frustration in its television adaptation on CBS Thursday night.

The play, adjusted adroitly to meet television's needs by Miller, made its point by going back to an earlier witchhunt in Salem, Mass., at the close of the 17th century.

It was a story of superstition that fostered hysteria, of frightened and cruel people, and the message was implicit throughout. Miller felt, however, he must restate it in the final word of the two-hour and 15-minute drama: "Wherever men have lost all faith in one another, the ancient cry of witch still hovers on the wind, and it can still destroy."

The story started with a group of giddy girls surprised by the local minister when they were dancing in the woods. They became hysterical, rolled around in seizures and claimed to be possessed. Then they started naming local housewives as witches.

The story centered on John Proctor and his wife, Elizabeth, powerfully and effectively played by George C. Scott and Colleen DeHust. The woman was accused as a witch by the ringleader of the girls, played with saccharine viciousness by Tuesday Weld.

The hopelessness of the situation was clearly shown. There was a brutal court composed of a religious fanatic who was judge and jury, and he was surrounded by venal men. There were frightened townspeople seeking only to save their skins. John Proctor moved inexorably toward the gallows, one of the few who stubbornly refused to lie and accuse innocent people to save himself.

The drama seemed a little slow in getting off the ground but considerable exposition was needed before the plot could take off. And from time to time the acting of some of the lesser players got a little out of hand — as, indeed, did Scott's final very theatrical scenes when he was clanking around in chains. All in all, however, it was a gripping and stimulating experience.

Would that the same happy report could be made about "The Human Voice," the one-character play with Ingrid Bergman which ABC broadcast during some of the time when "The Crucible" was shown.

Miss Bergman did her level best — which is good indeed — with a Jean Cocteau piece that had been pulled very thin to last an hour. It was simply a closeup of a woman at the end of an affair holding a desperate, final telephone conversation with her lost love.

It was too bad, since it could have come off as an interesting exercise in acting by an interesting performer if it could have been chopped down to 30 minutes.

Tonight — "Adventures of Mark Twain," ABC, 8-9 EDT, David Wayne as narrator and performer in a program of illustrated readings from the works of the late novelist.

Children Anxious to Be Citizens

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — "Am I a citizen yet? Am I a citizen yet?" the girl kept asking.

A pledge of allegiance later she was.

Barbara Vlahakis, 4, and her brother Jimmy 5, became two of the newest and youngest naturalized U.S. citizens in Ingham County Monday.

The youngsters were born in Greece and brought to this country in December 1963 by their adopted parents, Mr. and Mrs. John J. Vlahakis of Lansing.

After the required three-year waiting period the Vlahakis family applied for naturalization for Barbara and Jimmy and went through the customary questioning by immigration officials.

After the ceremony, Jimmy, a kindergarten, was whisked from the judge's chambers to class. Barbara went home to put her new American flag in a safe place.

"We'll probably have a celebration," said Mrs. Vlahakis, "maybe cake with red-white-and-blue icing."

YOUTH ASKED FOR IT!

This column is for young people, their problems and pleasures, their troubles and fun. As with the rest of Helen Help Us!, it welcomes laughs but won't dodge a serious question with a brush off.

Send your teenage questions to YOUTH ASKED FOR IT, care of Helen Help Us! in this newspaper.

MORE MAIL FROM THE MALES

Dear Helen: In response to READER, if I were going to give advice to a young man getting married, here is what I'd say: Try to remember after the ceremony that this is the same girl you wooed and won by being a gentleman. Don't stop being polite and thoughtful, even to lighting her cigarettes.

Ask her now her day went and pay attention when she tells you. Then tell her little things about YOUR day. She likes to share your trials as well as your achievements.

Take her a little surprise often, not just on her birthday or anniversary. One flower, or a candy bar means you care.

When she tells you she got whistled at today, act jealous. A little jealousy goes a long way to help sagging spirits.

Help her set the table or do the dishes or get the kids ready for bed every now and again, even if you don't feel like it. Her day hasn't been a bed of roses either.

Most important: tell her often that you love her. She needs to hear you say it.

I have always tried to do these things, and I am going on number five of the happiest and most rewarding years of my total 30 — LUCKY

Dear Helen: The man might well be the bread winner, but the wife has the tremendous chore of holding the parts — and the dough — together. He should appreciate and help her any way he can.

There isn't a day goes by but what a man can find something to compliment his wife on — her cooking, her looks, the way she raises the children and handles the home: the way she makes him feel like a king.

A husband should talk to his wife about anything and everything. He'll likely find there's a solution to all his problems, when he shares them. He should remember that each of us has faults, and it's a mate's job to understand and overlook them. Most important: he should express his love in actions and words.

I've used this formula for 13 years and three children, and it WORKS! — JACK

Dear Helen: It's the little things that count with women. Tell her how nice she looks in a certain outfit; surprise her with an unexpected compliment or present; give her "personal" gifts that show you see her as glamorous, not things for the house which she can buy herself. A black, sexy nightgown puts more love in her eye and warmth in her heart than a new electric blanket.

Take her out for dinner once a week. Give her a hand with the housework.

Use diplomacy. Offer sympathy and comfort even though you may think you are right. If you quarrel frequently, look to yourself. It can't be ALWAYS her fault.

Yes, I'm a man writing this, one who learned too late. I was overly ambitious, worked full-time on one job, part-time on three others, had no home life, so now I am — FIFTY AND ALONE.

Dear Helen: Over 33 years of happy marriage, here are some of the things I have learned: Respect your wife as a LADY — there's a difference between "lady" and "woman." Realize she worked as hard, possibly harder than you do. I give my lady Sundays off, when I prepare dinner, wash dishes — the works. I help with the heavy cleaning. Your readers may think I'm henpecked. Not so! We have equal say in family affairs and finances. When there are arguments, I remind myself it takes two — so I shut up, and everything is fine next day.

A happy, healthy lady like my wife is like good wine — she improves with age, if she is cared for in the right way. — A SATISFIED HUSBAND

Bob Thomas at the Movies

By BOB THOMAS

AP Movie-Television Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP) —

Presley emerged this week from the seclusion of his private life. He celebrated his marriage to Priscilla Ann Beaulieu at a lavish Las Vegas reception, then disappeared once more.

The wedding apparently caused no wave of consternation among the Presley fans. Most of the girls who screamed at his gyrations 10 years ago are now wives and mothers. While many of them remain fiercely loyal to their hero, they appear sympathetic to his acquiring a wife.

The loyalty of Presley fans puzzles Hollywood insiders. Unlike some popular favorites who are willing to share their personal lives with the public, Elvis has led an almost Carbo-like existence in recent years.

He makes no personal appearances, gives only perfunctory interviews on movie sets. His records and movies are his only exposure to the public. While his record sales have been overshadowed by the Beatles and other more recent favorites, he is still a top seller. He can still earn a million dollars a piece for the three films he makes annually.

His romance with Priscilla Beaulieu was typical of Presley's penchant for secrecy.

Movie magazines and gossip columnists started to sniff out a romance when the petite brunette appeared amid the plaudits of handlers and hangers-on that surrounded the singer.

It was discovered that Elvis had met her when he was 24 and she was 14. He was stationed with the Army in Germany, where her father was an Air Force officer.

His chief romance when he returned to his career was a girl named Anita Woods. But that blew over about the time Priscilla's father was transferred to the United States. She turned up as permanent house guest at Elvis' lavish Memphis home, Graceland. The singer's father and stepmother lived there at the time, but later moved out.

Priscilla finished high school in Memphis, remaining there during Presley's forays to Hollywood for film making. After graduating, she joined the entourage, living in the mosque-like Bel Air mansion Elvis rented during filming.

"She used to drive around Memphis in a fire-engine red Corvair convertible," said a Memphis reporter. "She wouldn't say whether Elvis had bought it for her. In fact, she wouldn't say much of anything. She was as hard to get to as Elvis."

Priscilla helped preside at the parties for the Presley group at Graceland. She also went along on the nighttime entertainments. Unwilling to be exposed to public view, even in his home

During the past year, this fellow movie workers thought Elvis was inclining toward matrimony, especially since several of his close followers were marrying and starting families. More evidence appeared when he bought his own Bel Air mansion a year ago, then a $600,000 house in Palm Springs.

Missed Class But Made Up for It

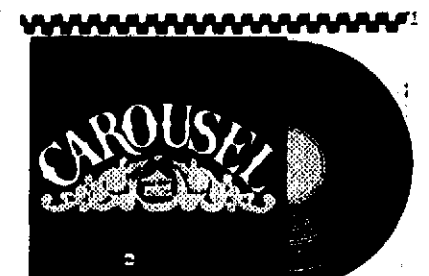

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn. (AP)

— An 18-year-old ambulance attendant, who "missed class" when the subject was delivering babies, received first-hand experience Tuesday.

Thomas Richard Pursley brought a 4-pound, 7-ounce baby into the world in the back of an ambulance only moments before the emergency vehicle was hit broadside by a car.

The teenager said he missed a seminar on baby deliveries last week because he was on an emergency call. So he spent Monday night reading that section of an attendant's manual. "I was afraid it might happen to me some day and I wouldn't be ready," he said.

The infant boy and his mother were unharmed in the accident. Pursley suffered a knee injury. The ambulance driver received a broken arm.

Jim Hart Is Getting to Be Met Fan

By BOB GREEN
Associated Press Sports Writer
Jim Hart may be the biggest Met fan since Casey Stengel. Not for what the Mets do to the opposition. Which isn't much. For what he does to them.

And what he does to the Mets is amazing, absolutely amazing. "I can't explain it," the San Francisco Giants' third baseman said. "I just go up there swinging."

Whatever the cause, if Hart could play all his games against the Mets he'd probably break all of baseball's most cherished records.

He had a homer and scored twice Thursday night in the Giants' 3-1 victory over the Mets, boosting his season average against New York to .400.

But that isn't surprising. Last season he hit .415 against the Mets, collecting nine of his 33 homers and 20 of his 93 runs batted in. The season before, eight of his 23 homers came off Met pitching.

Two of his three homers this year have been against the Mets. The ninth-inning solo shot Thursday clinched it for the Giants, who had to survive a mild Met threat in the eighth.

Pittsburgh rallied for a seven-run seventh inning and whipped Los Angeles 9-3 while Houston took Philadelphia 4-1 in the only other major league games played. Chicago at Atlanta in the National League was rained out. There were no games scheduled in the American League.

Hart started it against the Mets' Don Cardwell—who allowed only four hits before leaving for a pinch hitter in the seventh—with a walk in the second. Singles by Hal Lanier and Tito Fuentes got one run.

The Mets tied it against Mike McCormick in the fourth, but the Giants went to 2-1 in the sixth on a double by Jesus Alou, a ground out and Willie Mays' ground single up the middle.

McCormick, who had a three-hitter going into the eighth, got into a jam with two pinch singles after one was out. Frank Linzy came on, got the next man to ground into an inning-ending double play and retired New York in order in the ninth.

The Pirates vaulted into second place, two games back of idle Cincinnati, on the strength of their comeback victory against the Dodgers. Maury Wills was the big gun against his old Dodger mates with two singles and a double.

His bases-loaded single drove in two runs and triggered the seven-run seventh inning that wiped out a 3-2 Dodger lead. Bill Mazeroski had a bases-loaded triple in the big inning that saw 13 Pirates go to bat.

Three Houston right-handers, including winner Dick Farrell, combined for a five-hitter against the Phillies. Farrell came on in the fourth when starter Don Wilson pulled a shoulder muscle, and allowed only one hit before leaving in the seventh.

Three scratch singles and Jim Landis' double got two Astro runs in the first and Bob Aspromonte had a solo homer in the fourth.

Grid League to Open Its 8th Season

NEW YORK (AP) — The American Football League will open its eighth season Sunday, Sept. 3, with the Denver Patriots making their debut under new coach Lou Saban at home against the Boston Patriots.

Each team will play 14 games during the 17-week season that will stretch to Sunday, Dec. 24. The Boston-Denver contest will be the only game in the first week on a schedule that will include five Saturday night games, two Thanksgiving Day games and two Saturday day games in late season.

The league championship game will be played Sunday, Dec. 31, in the home park of the Western Division champion.

Kansas City, the defending champions, will open on the road, Saturday, Sept. 3, at Houston and will not be home until Oct. 5. The Buffalo Bills, Eastern Division champs, will play their first four games at home.

3 Tie for Lead in Houston

By RONALD THOMPSON
HOUSTON (AP) — Who but Arnold Palmer could spray drives into a lake, a ditch and heavy woods for two double bogeys, then end with a three-under-par 68? He did, with six birds and a 145-yard eagle.

Palmer, defending champion in the $115,000 Champions International was only one stroke off the leaders' pace of 67, set by Frank Beard, George Archer and Dan Sikes, as the rich golf tournament headed into its second round today.

Some called it a peculiar round. Palmer, who has won more money than any other man in golf, said "with the exception of three holes it was one of the better rounds I've played all year."

On the first tee, Palmer slammed a hooking drive into a ditch took a penalty stroke, then a double bogey six after two putts.

He did not let the bad start bother him. By the time he made the turn over the 7,118-yard, par 71 Cypress Creek course, he had three birds and five pars to go one under.

His birdie total ran to five through the 11th hole and he added the sixth at No. 13. Then he put a one-iron shot into a lake and suffered another double bogey.

But, on No. 15, a par 4, 415-yarder, Palmer's drive split the fairway. With a seven iron, he lofted the ball to the green 145 yards away.

"It was a three-quarter seven iron," he said. "The ball landed about four feet short and jumped right into the hole."

Palmer had a tie for the lead in his pocket as he headed to No. 17.

"I had a bad tee shot to the right trees," he said. "Then I hit a tree out of the woods and went back in. I two putted for a bogey from eight feet."

While Palmer had his ups and downs, Jack Nicklaus had only troubles, soaring to a 77. He stumbled with four straight bogeys on the front nine, then had a disastrous triple bogey seven on the 14th hole, driving first out of bounds and later into a lake.

Only 16 golfers broke par on opening day Thursday over the heavily wooded course, which was soaked by scattered showers throughout the week.

Archer, Beard and Sikes found their putting touches to thrust them ahead. Sikes and Beard one putted seven greens each, and Archer, who dropped two from 50 and 60 feet, used one putt on six greens.

Harold Henning, a young south African tied with Palmer at 68. Four players, Kermit Zarley, Don January, George Knudson and the immortal Ben Hogan, locked at 69.

Hogan, 54, who plays only selected tournaments, racked up four birds and two bogeys. Bantam Ben declared, "Boy, that was a long course for a guy like me."

Earlier Start in Football Considered

CHICAGO (AP) — An earlier start to the collegiate fall football practice was proposed Thursday by the National Collegiate Athletic Association's executive committee.

Coaches in the past have petitioned for at least a 21-day practice session and the subject of earlier starts has gained in controversy with the trend toward trimester academic programs.

Schools on a trimester basis have had a head start under the existing NCAA rule.

The rule states fall practice shall not begin prior to Sept. 1, or prior to two weeks before the day of classes, or 16 days before the first scheduled game — whichever is earliest.

The executive group, which will be joined today by the NCAA's policy-making council and extra-events committee in the weekend meetings, recommended to the council that a study committee be appointed to formulate a 1968 NCAA convention amendment changing the present preseason football practice and starting date regulation.

The executive committee also recommended that the football rules committee submit a special program of research to reduce injuries to the NCAA's committee on competitive safety, guards and medical aspects of sports.

Porks Play Red-White Game Today

FAYETTEVILLE, Ark. (AP)

A second Red-White football game at 2:30 p.m. here Friday will conclude spring practice for the Arkansas Razorbacks.

"We're real anxious to see how it turns out," Head Coach Frank Broyles said Thursday. "I think we've improved on the fundamental techniques."

After the Whites defeated the Reds 7-3 in their first game here, Broyles said his Porks looked a little "green."

"We will have basically the same squads with a few changes because of injuries," Broyles said.

Listed as injured were Defensive End David Spatts, Linebacker John Paul Daves and Nose Guard David Cooper.

Captains for the Red Team will be Alvin Jones and Ernest Ruple, both defensive tackles, while Defensive End Hartford Hamilton and Defensive Halfback Tommy Trantham will lead the Whites.

Broyles may leave for Georgia near the end of the game to attend an appreciation dinner for retiring Head Football Coach Bobby Dodd, who coached Broyles during his quarterbacking days at Georgia Tech.

There was no scrimmage Thursday as the Razorbacks devoted their hour and a half workout to strategic assignments and techniques.

Travelers Lose on Runs Unearned

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — El Paso scored two unearned runs in the ninth inning of a baseball game here Thursday night and retained its Texas League lead with a 5-3 victory over Arkansas.

Ethan Blackaby was hit by a pitched ball, stole second base and reached third on an over-the-throw. Vic LaRose walked, then

There are 44 professionals entered. First money is $1,875.

MIDLAND, Tex. (AP)—Kathy Whitworth, the only participant on the Ladies Professional Golf Association tour with two victories this year, starts after No. 3 today in the $12,500 Tall City Open. She won it last year.

The tournament is being played on the 6,800-yard, par 72 Midland Country Club course for the first time. The three previous Opens were at the shorter Hogan Park municipal course.

A victory in the 54-hole event could make Miss Whitworth the leading money winner for the both scored when Arkansas relief pitcher Jerry Robertson threw wildly to third in an attempt to foil their double steal.

Going into the ninth, right-hander Paul Maneff retired 13 Travelers in a row and held a 5-1 lead. He then gave up a two-run homer to Billy Wolff and a double to Joe Hauge before Eric Spellman relieved and retired Arkansas without further damage.

The Sun Kings picked up two runs in the sixth, when Gordy Avery singled, Jarvis Tatum walked and Jim Spencer and Don Wilkinson brought them in with a pair of singles.

Arkansas starter Joe DiFable suffered a finger blister in the fourth inning and retired after giving up only one hit. Lee Newton took the loss.

In other Texas League action Amarillo downed Austin 3-1 and Albuquerque beat Dallas 1-0 after 12 innings.

Wills Likes to Play the Dodgers

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Happiness, says Maury Wills, is playing against his former Los Angeles Dodgers teammates.

The little speedster was traded in a huff to Pittsburgh last winter, and Wills said he expected his first series against the Dodgers to be a bruising affair.

But the Dodgers were friendly, and Wills was friendly in return. "All of a sudden I became mellow," he said.

The Pirates won two of three games in the rain — shortened series as Wills batted .461, scored four runs, drove in a pair and stole a base.

"On Sunday I was anticipating the games," Wills said. "I was quite excited. The adrenalin was flowing. I thought it would be a knock-down, drag-out struggle."

"But it wasn't like that at all," he added. "They were glad to see me and I was glad to see them. All of a sudden I became mellow."

"Even during the excitement on the field the guys were friendly and calling me 'Cap,'" he said. Wills was the team captain while playing for the Dodgers.

In the eighth inning Thursday night, Wills was trapped off third base and tagged out by Dodger catcher Jeff Torborg.

"Torborg tagged me pretty hard," said Wills. "But he apologized."

The Pirates won 9-3 Thursday night with Wills delivering a key single with bases loaded during a seven-run Pirate rally in the seventh inning.

The Dodgers traded Wills in the off-season after he defied the Los Angeles top brass by returning early from a Far East exhibition trip because of leg trouble.

Wills said his legs feel fine now. And his batting average is healthy, too, standing at .338 at present.

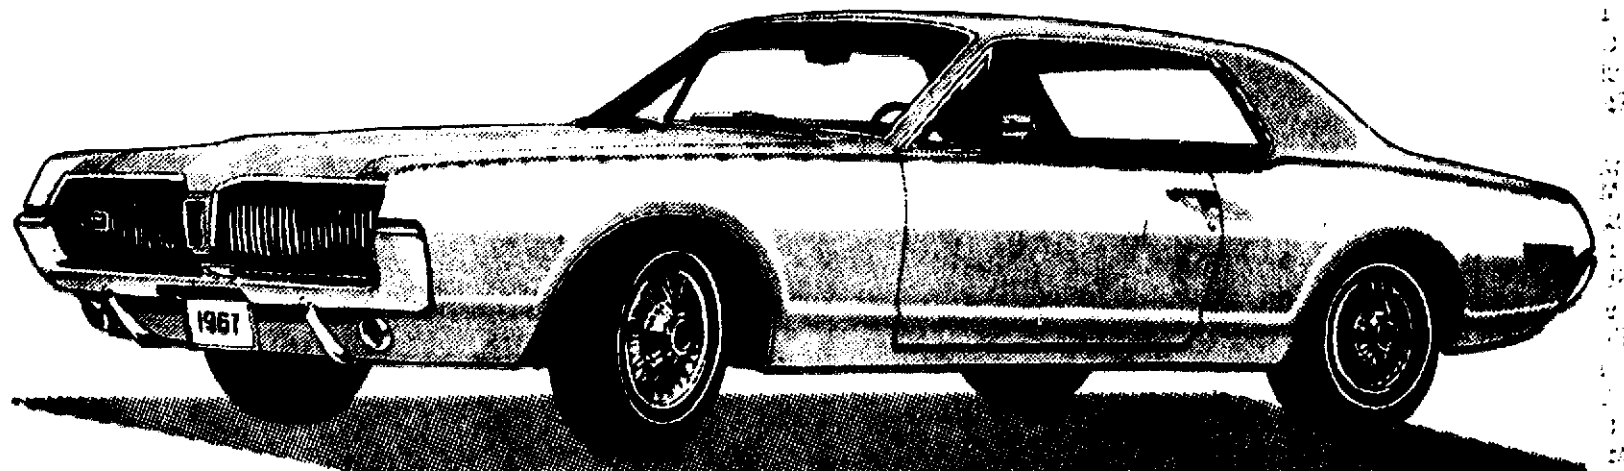

But as congenial as the Pirate-Dodger series was, Wills made it plain that Pittsburgh's victories had a lot to do with his pleasant glow.

"I am satisfied very much," he said. "I just wish we could have won the first one. Not that I want to rub it in in any way."

Face Lifting Does Not Halt Process of Aging

By WAYNE G. BRANDSTADT, M.D. Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

Q—In what way does a face lifting help? How would a person look a couple of years after this operation? Are most people satisfied after such an operation? Can you tell that a person has had one?

A—In the technique now widely used, an incision is made at the side of the face near the hair line and the excess skin is removed. This removes the wrinkles but does not halt the process of aging. The operation leaves you looking 10 to 12 years younger. Two years later you would still look good but after four or five years you might need a retread.

Most people who depend for their living on making a pleasing appearance in public are satisfied with the results. When skillfully done, the scar is hardly noticeable but in women that is not so important because they can choose a hairdo that will cover the scar.

Q—I am 37 and have deep wrinkles in my face. Am I too young to have a face lifting?

A—Some persons have this operation in their 20s.

Q—My doctor says I have sarcoidosis or Boeck's sarcoid in my lungs. What causes it? Is it serious? What is the best treatment?

A—Sarcoidosis is a disease of unknown origin. Although it resembles tuberculosis in many ways, it is apparently not caused by an infectious agent. It may be due to an allergy to pine tree pollen, the dust of peanut hulls or some other allergen. In the skin and lymph nodes it causes a lumpy enlargement. It may occur anywhere in the body but the commonest location is in the lungs. The nodules may exist for years without causing any symptoms, depending on the part of the body involved.

Because of the benign nature of the disease, many doctors prefer a course of watchful waiting with periodic checks rather than vigorous treatment. Others prescribe X-ray treatments or such drugs as streptomycin, colchicine, hydrocortisone or chloroquine. The results with these measures are varied. The disease runs a harmless course unless a vital organ becomes involved and most victims live long enough to die of some other cause.

Q—Do human beings ever get the mange? If so, what would be the symptoms and the best treatment?

A—Mange is an infestation with an itch mite. Although the animal itch mite can be transmitted to man, in man it clears up in about 10 days without any treatment.

Please send your questions and comments to Wayne G. Brandstadt, M.D., in care of this paper. While Dr. Brandstadt cannot answer individual letters he will answer letters of general interest in future columns.

QUICK QUIZ

Q—Why are greyhounds so called?

A—Although many are gray, the name does not refer to this color but comes from the Icelandic word meaning "dog."

Q—Who painted grapes that birds pecked at?

A—Zeuxis, a famous Greek painter who lived in the latter part of the fifth century B.C., is said to have painted a bunch of grapes that looked so natural that birds pecked at them.

Q—Is salt necessary for life?

A—It is a natural constituent of all animal fluids and is, therefore, necessary for life.

Q—For how long did the U.S. government operate the railroads during World War I?

A—Operation started Jan. 1, 1918, and lasted for 26 months until March 1, 1920.

Explanation of Committee of $100

Here's an explanation of the Chamber of Commerce Committee of 100.

It is a special committee of the Chamber of Commerce set up strictly for the purpose of raising funds for industrial development.

It will be composed of Business and Professional men of Hempstead County who pledge themselves to contribute $100.00 per year.

The Chamber of Commerce budget has never had sufficient funds for industrial trips and the proper entertainment of industrial prospects who visit our City.

In the past when it was necessary to visit an industrial prospect, those people making the trip, for the most part, paid their own expenses, which is actually asking too much of a few dedicated citizens.

Personal contact has been proven to be the most effective industrial development tool and Hope has not done nearly enough of this in the past, due to lack of funds. Industry hunting is getting more competitive each year and those towns with funds to go after it are the ones that are doing the best job.

An Executive Committee, composed of nine (9) citizens, will be elected from those who contribute to the fund and no money will be disbursed, for any purpose, without prior approval from a majority of this committee voting to do so.

The Chamber of Commerce Treasurer and Manager will be charged with the responsibility of keeping accurate records of funds deposited and disbursed and with furnishing the Executive Committee with an operating statement for each of their meetings or at any time that they are called on to do so.

No salaries to anyone will be paid out of this fund.

The Hope Water & Light Commission, realizing the need for such a fund, has pledged matching money up to $5,000.00, so a $100.00 contribution will actually be worth $200.00 to the fund.

The unions, which seek more pay from the nation's railroads, immediately announced they would oppose the President's proposal in Congress, denouncing it as compulsory arbitration.

The railroads said they would not oppose the plan but favor amending federal law to deal with all such disputes, not just one.

Staggers said some members of his committee also feel Johnson should offer legislation that deals with all threatened nationwide transport strikes, rather than just the present dispute.

The West Virginia Democrat said he would give his own position when the hearings start Tuesday. He said the situation was too uncertain to offer any predictions at this time.

Two Democrats on the Senate Labor Committee, Sens. Wayne Morse of Oregon and Jennings Randolph of West Virginia, praised Johnson for avoiding the extremes of seizure or what Randolph termed "outright compulsory arbitration."

Morse called the President's plan "a wise and statesmanlike solution" and said it is essential it receive swift Senate approval.

But Sen. Jacob K. Javits of New York, senior GOP member of the committee, said, "Before I can back the President's plan for a mandatory settlement, I will have to be satisfied this was the only way to avoid a railroad strike."

Plans for Senate hearings were to be mapped at a closed meeting of the Senate Labor subcommittee today.

In Thursday's message to Congress, Johnson said his proposal "represents the slightest possible intrusion upon the process of collective bargaining."

Test of Wills Has Stymied House Group

By CARL P. LEUBSDORF WASHINGTON (AP) — A curious test of wills between one of the House's most powerful chairmen and a newcomer to leadership ranks has stymied efforts to fill Democratic ranks on the committee which considers oil, gas, communications and transportation legislation.

After a week of behind-the-scenes maneuvering, the situation remains unresolved.

The contestants are Rep. Wilbur D. Mills, powerful chairman of the Ways and Means Committee, and Rep. Harley O. Staggers, mild-mannered, white-haired chairman of the Commerce Committee.

In the middle is Rep. Joe D. Waggoner, a conservative Democrat from Plain Dealing, La., and a rising leader among Southern Democrats.

The problem is that Democratic members of the Ways and Means Committee, who fill committee Democratic vacan-dark brown hair, is 5'5 inches tall, weighs 123 pounds and vit-bi statistics are 36-24-37.

Dora Ann is a member of the Ouachita Singers and the Madrigal Singers, Kappa Delta Pi, Phi Mu Alpha Sinfonia Music Fraternity Sweetheart, First runner-up to Miss Ouachita of 1967 and is listed in Who's Who Among Students in American Colleges and Universities.

cles, elected three members to fill two vacancies in the mistaken belief that an agreement existed to add one Democrat to the 32-member Commerce Committee.

The three Democrats were freshman Reps. Peter N. Kyros of Maine and W. S. Stuckey of Georgia, plus Waggoner.

But Staggers objected to increasing his committee to add another conservative, since the 19 Democrats include seven Southerners who frequently vote with the 13 Republicans.

Mills, however, has decided that unless Staggers agrees to the addition of Waggoner, he won't do anything about Kyros and Stuckey. No formal announcement of the election last Thursday has been made yet to the House, although ethics committee members picked at the same time were announced Monday.

Waggoner still wants to be on the Commerce Committee, and Democratic leaders with an eye toward future close votes would like to grant his wish.

But Staggers is adamant. "I am not going to let them enlarge my committee," he told a reporter.

GAYLE WILLIAMS

A contestant in the Miss Hope Pageant to be held Saturday, May 13 in the Hope High School Auditorium is Miss Gayle Williams, 19, daughter of Mrs. Lucy Mae Williams of Hope.

Gayle is a 1966 graduate of Hope High School and is now a freshman at Southern State College in Magnolia. She has had special training in modern dancing, fencing, voice for two years, band seven years, church choir seven years and All State Majorette.

She is a member of Association of Women Students at Southern State, member of the Concert Choir and Madrigal Singers, synchronized swim team, was a senior beauty in high school and homecoming queen, NHS president and was Southwest Arkansas Junior Miss in 1966.

Members Are Unmoved by Dodd's Plea

By JOHN CHADWICK

WASHINGTON (AP) — Members of the Senate ethics committee appeared unmoved today by Sen. Thomas J. Dodd's opening defense plea against their recommendation that he be censured for financial misconduct.

The Connecticut Democrat wrote all senators Thursday saying "there are absolutely no facts whatsoever on which to base a recommendation of censure for double billing" for travel expenses.

This was one of two grounds on which the bipartisan panel recommended last week, after a 14-month investigation, that Dodd be censured for conduct which "tends to bring the Senate into dishonor and disrepute."

The other was that he used for personal benefit at least $116,083 in campaign contributions and in funds raised through political testimonials.

Dodd aides indicated another letter dealing with this other aspect of the case may be sent to senators before the censure resolution is taken up in the Senate in about two weeks.

Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy, D-Minn., a member of the ethics committee, said Dodd's letter denying any intentional double billing dealt with "essentially the facts we considered."

Sen. Wallace F. Bennett, R-Utah, the committee's vice chairman, said it found the double billing was part of "a course of conduct" on Dodd's part and that this was the key to its recommendation for censure.

He said the committee stands on its information as represented in the stipulation of facts agreed to by Dodd at hearings on the charges against him.

Dodd's 6-page letter was dispatched shortly after Sen. Russell B. Long, D-La., told the Senate he wished to apologize if he had offended any of his colleagues by saying that half the ethics committee members couldn't stand the investigation Dodd went through.

Long, the assistant Democratic leader, is the only senator so far who has spoken in defense of Dodd and announced he would vote against censure.

Dodd's letter was an effort to buttress his testimony that the double billings for travel expenses were not deliberate on his part but the result of sloppy bookkeeping.

He attached five letters dated between 1961 and 1964 and sent to an airline to request corrected billing of travel charges. He said the letters were offered to the ethics committee but rejected.

Dodd said these letters showed that his former bookkeeper, Michael V. O'Hare, made "numerous mistakes both in requesting reimbursement for travel expenses and in failing to do so."

Rockefeller Has Praise for Romney

SAGINAW, Mich. (AP) — Arkansas Gov. Winthrop Rockefeller, who refused last week to endorse Gov. George Romney for the GOP presidential nomination, lavished praise on the Michigan Republican Thursday night.

"I know you are exceedingly proud of this man, who set aside his illustrious business career to establish for the state of Michigan, and for the Republican Party, one of the great records of public service in this century," Rockefeller told those attending a $50-a-plate Governor's Day dinner here.

"He took fiscal chaos and transformed it into fiscal integrity," he said. "He fought for, and brought about your greatly needed constitutional reform."

In the most challenging of circumstances, he led the way to wonderful improvements in the field of human relations.

Rockefeller also echoed some of the points made by Romney during his visit in Little Rock last Sunday, including an attack on the "Creative Federalism" proposal by President Lyndon Johnson.

"I'm not at all certain what this means," Rockefeller said, "but I am reasonably certain I don't like the sound of it. What this new Creative Federalism will do, the president says, is create a partnership involving Washington and the state of the nation."

"Believe me, I'm for partnerships, but . . . I've never known of a successful partnership that was formed without the knowledge and consent of all the partners."

"My suspicion is that this is what LBJ is looking for—50 silent partners. Well he won't find one in Arkansas as long as Win Rockefeller is governor."

Rockefeller had equally harsh words for the new Cabinet-level Department of Consumers, which he said he presumed would have the power to regulate the production, grading, packaging, labeling and marketing of all consumer goods.

Consumers already are protected by 33 governmental agencies employing 19,000 persons, Rockefeller said, and there are "so many reasons for being dubious about establishing this new bureaucratic giant (that) it is all but impossible to arrange the objections of a priority basis."

"The cost—although certainly it would be astronomical—could be survived much more easily than the damage that inevitably would result to our system of free enterprise," Rockefeller said.

"Ultimately, under such all-powerful government control, the producer simply would lose his choice to buy something better."

The Arkansas Republican said he also thought that it was time to stop shouting "States Rights" and start exercising "States Responsibilities."

To do this, he suggested, the federal government should initiate a "tax sharing" plan under which the government would return a percentage of federal tax revenues to the states with no strings attached.

The formula for equalizing these "bloc grants" should take into account a state's population and its fiscal need," Rockefeller said, "and it should include a bonus factor that recognized initiative and effort."

Turning to his own state, Rockefeller said its greatest need was constitutional revision.

"Updating our antiquated constitution won't solve all our state's problems," he said, "but I am convinced that it can do something important, not only in terms of our immediate needs, but for our ultimate concept of government."

Rockefeller said he couldn't go into all of the "unrealities" of his state's constitution imposed, because "my Democratic friends back home might carry off the state Capitol before I could complete such a recitation."

Troops Could Return in Big Hurry

By FRED S. HOFFMAN

WASHINGTON (AP) — Two U.S. Army brigades due to be pulled out of West Germany could be back in Europe and ready for combat two weeks after an emergency summons, it was disclosed today.

This is half the time mentioned by U.S. officials Thursday when they spoke of a maximum deployment period for the brigades, which will be based in the United States.

The same officials said four Air Force squadrons to be returned to this country could be flown back and made ready to fight in 10 days or less.

"Under emergency conditions a general approximation of two weeks time would be required to fly the brigades back to Germany, match them with their equipment, and have them ready for combat," the Defense Department told The Associated Press today.

"This time would include time to move the troops to the embarkation airfield, transit time to Europe, time to break out, issue and test equipment, and time to maneuver into position in Europe."

Quick reaction ability is vital in U.S. attempts to convince North Atlantic Treaty Organization allies the United States is not reducing its commitment to defend Western Europe from possible Communist attack, even though it is calling home some 35,000 Army troops and airmen.

American authorities contend rapid response to any emergency is possible by improved U.S. airlift resources — and an even greater improvement in the next few years when the giant C5 transport planes becomes part of the fleet.

This thinking also is predicated on the belief there would be a time of tension during which troops could be deployed — not a surprise enemy strike.

The plan is to keep the two brigades of the 24th Infantry Division "in a high degree of readiness to deploy" while they are in the United States, the Pentagon said.

Annual exercises will give the Army and Air Force an opportunity to refine and streamline techniques and procedures. The two stateside brigades will be reunited with one left in West Germany in annual transatlantic movements.

The four squadrons, numbering nearly 100 planes, also will be flown to West Germany once a year for maneuvers, joining the five other squadrons stationed in Europe.

Life In Arkansas

A run was made on a bank in Paragould one day last week, but it caused no scare on the financial structure of the city. Every depositor was paid in full, and the event was even celebrated.

The bank went out of business, of course, since it was left with no money, but no one cared because a lesson was learned.

The financial institution in question was the Elmwood-Oakwood Savings Bank, and it was operated for 15 weeks by sixth-grade students in the Elmwood and Oakwood schools.

During the 15 weeks, students in the two schools deposited $1,140.80 in savings accounts, which figures out to an average of $76 a week.

The bank was a project in economic education by the Elmwood sixth grade under direction of Carl Hoffman, a teacher.

Students did the bookkeeping and did such a professional job that only one error was made in the 15-week period, and that was a 23-cent discrepancy. The project by the students received recognition in two banking magazines.

The bank's closing was celebrated with a coffee in the Elmwood Library for bank officials, teachers and the student bank staff.

Paragould bankers Cecil and Robert Mitchell spoke to the group and told them that a student in the second grade who begins saving 50 cents a week now will be able to pay for his tuition and books in college with his savings account.

Surely such an idea drew strong support from parents, who undoubtedly looked upon the successful project as an amazing feat. After all, how many parents can honestly say they are able to keep their check books in balance?

At Russellville, there is a different type of project being studied. The town wants to get rid of some "strip pit mound" eyesores along the highway north of the city.

The solution, it seems, lies at the technical school at Morrilton where some of the training is in the operation of heavy equipment. Trainees there were said to be in need of practice projects.

So, all Russellville has to do is raise $5,000 to pay for fuel for the heavy equipment; the trainees will get their practice in operating it and the strip pit mounds apparently are doomed.

Politics, Like Business, Runs in Cycles

In a commentary written for the Associated Press last week Joseph R. Coyne pointed out that corporate profits are declining this Spring and if the trend is unchecked it could materially reduce the government's tax income and push the federal deficit above 10 billions.

I might add that the federal politicians have invited this trouble by mixing politics and business.

Almost every corporate quarterly report blames the slow-down in earnings on increased costs due to Washington's labor legislation, which was inspired by the thought that it would win votes and the national economy could absorb the charge.

Today's culprit is a Democratic administration with a bias in favor of labor and an unmanageable debt.

But not so many years ago the villain was a Republican administration with a bias for Big Business and methodical reduction of debt.

Economic historians long ago determined that what brought on the 1929-33 Depression was the Republicans' constant jacking up of American high tariffs. Their last tariff hike, the Smoot-Hawley Act of the late 1920's, broke the camel's back. It priced American goods so high they wouldn't sell in foreign markets, world trade stagnated, and the very enactment that was supposed to spell "full dinner-pail" for American workmen closed their factories and put them out on the street.

There is a grim cycle in the misjudgments of politicians, just as with businessmen—and the history of the Republican failure in the 1900's should be required reading for Washington Democrats in the 1960's.

Jerry Fine But Dad Collapsed

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Jerry Johnston, 12, was fishing along the Monongahela River Thursday when he turned around to see his father collapse into the arms of two policemen.

The father, Harry E. Johnston, 53, of Pittsburgh had rushed to the spot with police after an anonymous telephone caller told Mrs. Johnston that Jerry had drowned while fishing.

The elder Johnston was hospitalized for observation. Hospital officials said he had a heart attack.

Robbery Must Obey Law Too

LOS ANGELES (AP) — After a man robbed a branch of Security First National Bank, taking $894, two bank officers commandeered a car and gave chase.

The two passed police Officer Oscar Carreon, purring along the Golden State Freeway on his motorcycle, and called to him to give chase because "a robber's ahead."

Carreon drew alongside the speeding car of Morton Dillingham, 36, of Buena Park, Calif., and shouted:

"You're going too slow. Pull over."

Dillingham obeyed, was arrested and booked on suspicion of robbery. Police said he carried $894 in cash.

Bankers Know

GALVESTON, Tex. (AP) —

The opening of the Texas Mortgage Bankers Association convention was delayed Thursday because the convention hall was almost empty at the opening hour.

At the time, news photographers were shooting photographs of Caren Broome, Miss Galveston in the Miss Texas Universe Pageant, near the convention hall entrance. She was wearing a black bathing suit.

After the pictures were taken, the convention started.

Loans to Two Arkansas Cities

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Department of Housing and Urban Development announced Thursday that Des Arc had granted a $3,000 loan for the planning of 20 low-rent homes, and that Marianna would receive a $334,762 loan for construction of 24 low-rent homes.

Plan Would Draft Youths 19 First

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson's proposal for drafting younger men first has passed its first congressional test, but his idea for doing away with some 4,000 local draft boards got falling grades.

The Senate Armed Services Committee approved Thursday legislation that would require draft boards to call up youths starting at age 19 ahead of older potential draftees.

But it rejected the concept of consolidating the local draft boards—now manned by citizen volunteers—into hundreds of regional boards staffed exclusively by Civil Service personnel.

And the panel gave only limited approval to another proposed Johnson innovation—replacing the present system of induction, where the decision is up to the individual boards, with a lottery or random selection system.

The committee-approved legislation filled a gap left by the President's proposals—what to do about college deferments.

It suggested that college students in good standing should be deferred until they complete their undergraduate courses or reach the age of 24. Then they'd re-enter the draft pool along with the younger eligibles.

Republicans in the House earlier this year rapped Johnson for not offering a plan for handling undergraduate college deferments, which have become a controversial issue in the wake of enlarged draft calls to meet Vietnam war needs.

Under consideration in both houses of Congress is administration legislation to extend for four years the military draft law, due to expire June 30. The law requires youths to register for the draft at age 18 and keeps them from the ages of 18½ to 26 in a pool eligible to be drafted.

While the Senate panel did not rule out use of a lottery draft system, it questioned whether it would "really result in a fairer sharing of military service."

The universal lottery plan drew renewed backing from Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., in testimony Thursday before a House Armed Services subcommittee. The plan also was backed by Lt. Gen. Lewis B. Hershey, director of Selective Service.

Children's Art to Be Exhibited

An art exhibit by elementary school children of Hope will be held in the Hope Youth Center Monday, May 8 and Tuesday, May 9 in co-operation with the Festival of the Arts.

The theme of this year's exhibit is "A Child's Garden of Verses." Each grade will present an interpretation of a Robert Louis Stevenson poem. The first grade theme is "Rain"; second, "Singing"; third, "Swing"; fourth, "Cherry Tree"; fifth, "Where Go The Boats"; and sixth, "Hay Loft".

Five pictures were chosen from each classroom to be entered in the exhibit. These will be judged by a qualified art teacher from Texarkana and ribbons will be awarded.

Over two hundred pictures will be on display and the public is invited to visit the exhibit Monday and Tuesday from 10:00 to 6:00.

Schools participating in the exhibit are Paisley, Shover, Hope, Brookwood, and Garland. The children's art show is an annual project of the Hope Junior Auxiliary. Mrs. Thomas E. Hays, Jr. is chairman with Mrs. Dorsey McRae, Jr. in charge of staging.

Top picture shows azaleas at the residence of Miss Olive Jackson, 321 E. 14th St., photographed on 4x5 Ektachromes April 15.

At bottom is a pyracantha in The Star editor's "back 40" on S. Walnut St., taken April 16.

Technical importance attaches to this fifth process color production by The Star because every operation from the unloading of the film from the camera to the printed newspaper was performed in The Star building by The Star's staff with no outside help. Alex H. Washburn, editor & publisher, made the photographs, developed the Ektachrome film, and produced the separation negatives on the Berkey machine. Billy Dan Jones, mechanical superintendent, made and registered the printing plates and handled the five-unit Fairchild News King 475 on the color run.

Ordinarily newspapers don't bother with developing their color film, sending it off to a Dallas laboratory for automatic processing. But this involves a three-day waiting period before the finished transparencies are returned to Hope. For emergency purposes we should be prepared to shoot a color picture today and get it into the paper tomorrow. The Star now has the necessary equipment, tried it out on the pictures above and was successful—seven shots and seven good transparencies.

But we'll continue using the Dallas laboratory as a rule. Home development of hand-camera films in color is practical only when there is a volume of work to be done all at once, as when getting out a special edition. The tank solutions which process color films are unstable, won't last more than a week; and home operation is unwarranted unless there is a volume of work.

Marines Take Hill 881 But It Cost 1000

By GEORGE ESPER
SAIGON (AP) — The U.S. Marines took Hill 881 North today, the last of three border peaks that have cost the Leathernecks nearly 1,000 dead or wounded and the Communists an estimated 1,000 killed in 12 days of some of the hardest fighting of the Vietnam war.

U.S. officers in Da Nang announced that the summit of the hill was occupied at 2:35 p.m. by a Marine company that met only "light resistance" in the final assault. This indicated that the North Vietnamese had pulled out of their entrenched positions, possibly slipping across the Laotian border just below the demilitarized zone.

Elsewhere in South Vietnam's northern sector, the South Vietnamese reported their second success this week in the Hue area 40 miles south of the demilitarized zone. A spokesman said a battalion of the Vietnamese army's 1st Division drove a company of guerrillas into a vise with another government battalion and a troop of armored personnel carriers Thursday. U.S. Army helicopter gunships joined in the battle, and 89 guerrillas were killed and five captured, the spokesman said.

Two days earlier, government troops reported killing 156 guerrillas in an all-night battle northwest of Hue.

Poor weather limited U.S. pilots to only 68 missions over North Vietnam Thursday. But U.S. Air Force planes returned to the Hanoi area to bomb the electrical transformer site seven miles north of the city again, and Col. Robin Olds of Washington, D.C., shot down his second MIG. It made him the first double MIG killer of the war.

The kill came in a 20-minute series of at least seven dog-fights during the bombing of the transformer site. Olds' victim, a MIG21, was the 49th Communist jet claimed by American pilots in Vietnam.

The United States also lost another plane Thursday, a Navy A4 Skyhawk, to ground fire during an attack on a surface-to-air missile site south of Thanh Hoa. It was the 530th U.S. plane reported lost over North Vietnam. The pilot was listed as missing.

The Marines completed their conquest of the three adjacent hills commanding some of the Communist infiltration routes from Laos and the demilitarized zone after nearly two weeks of attack and counterattack and almost incessant air and artillery pounding of the stubborn North Vietnamese.

The Leathernecks captured Hill 881—so named because it is 881 meters 2,998 feet high—last Friday and fought their way to the top of Hill 881 South on Tuesday.

They dug in Thursday night on the slopes of 881 North and early today began moving cautiously toward the top.
